Dear [Redacted]

We are all aware that improvements can be made in the coordination and development of the DoD and NFIP budgets. One step toward that end would be an earlier DCI decision on the NFIP budget. Our receipt of the DCI's detailed, documented decisions in early November would allow sufficient time for DoD to conduct a coherent and comprehensive evaluation of the Defense portion of your recommended NFIP budget and to make this assessment in the context of our request for Tactical Intelligence and Related Activities (TIARA).

Accordingly, we have prepared and offer for your consideration the enclosed revised schedule of events and schedule for NFIP budget development. This new arrangement would not alter the basic tenets and structure of the NFIP's Capabilities Programming and Budgeting System (CPBS), and would enhance the compatibility of the NFIP and DoD budget processes. This new schedule expedites the development of the NFIP budget by joining the separate budget forecast (summer) and budget submission (fall) reviews. Combining these reviews would also give us the time we need to build the budget in an orderly manner. Additionally, the new schedule calls for the establishment of an NFIC Working Group to prepare and coordinate budget issues and to propose an NFIP ranking of base activities and initiatives for your approval.

Implementing this revised schedule and increasing the documentation and rationale accompanying the decisions would eliminate our primary concerns with the process. Executive Order 12333 requires the heads of Executive Branch departments and agencies to include the appropriate NFIP budget proposals, as approved by the DCI, in their own budget submissions. If NFIP budget decisions could be provided to department and agency heads somewhat in advance, rather than concurrent with or, as is often the case, later than the final departmental decisions, we would be able to assess the total NFIP recommendation against total DoD budgetary expectations, to address those NFIP initiatives of particular importance to the Department's mission and, in our dual role as the principal custodian and beneficiary of NFIP efforts, to join you in formulating credible justification for the intelligence efforts we believe must be funded.

From the perspective of mechanics, earlier receipt of the DCI decisions would be especially helpful in instances where the NFIP recommendation (1) exceeds departmental resource guidance levels and as such can only be included in the departmental budget at the expense of already approved non-NFIP requirements, or (2) is less than the Department's resource guidance and would thereby permit some funds to be applied to high priority but unfunded DoD efforts. Finally, and simply as a matter of efficient business procedures, this change would improve linkages in the important milestones throughout the budget development process for NFIP and DoD preparers and decision makers, who would mutually benefit from the greater consistency in scheduling and assessing manpower, communications, facilities, et al, to avoid programmatic inconsistencies.

Obviously this new schedule would require further definition as to rules, procedures and responsibilities, especially those having to do with the NFIC Working Group. If you believe there is some merit in developing this concept, representatives of the OSD staff are available to work with your staff to produce a plan for your approval. Hopefully, procedures could be developed in time for use during FY 1986 budget preparation.

Sincerely,

Donald C. Latham
